

خلينا نعمل الشاي!

How do you make tea? Which ingredients do you use? Do you combine them in a particular order?

As we read in Step 1, many Arab countries have very specific traditions for how tea is made and in which order. In this step, your task will be to watch carefully how Moroccan tea – the type we already read about – is made, and then come up with your own list of instructions for putting it together, using your knowledge of Arabic vocabulary!

Before you begin, make sure you have studied the tea-related vocabulary included in this module. Once you feel comfortable with it, yallah! Let's go!

Making Moroccan Tea

Watch the video below. As you watch, take notes on a sheet of paper. Attempt to name as many possible vocabulary items as you can as they appear on screen:

TEA CULTURE NOVICE

Now, go back and do a close watch of the video. Use the following chart as a “scaffold” to compile your own instructions for making Moroccan tea. Add in as much vocabulary as possible that relates to the instructions. When you’re done, go back and check the vocabulary list to fill in any “blanks.”
